What you must be able to do

Conduct post-meeting follow-up for a technical meeting. You will be assessed against these criteria:

Accurate minutes

Minutes are accurately produced and comply with organisational policy.

Decisions communicated

In the required format and within the required timeframe.

Actions summarised

Summaries of discussions and actions meet the format requirements.

What good minutes contain

Produce the minutes in the organisation's format, check them, and distribute them within the required time.

Section	Contents
Header	Meeting name, date, time, venue and the chairperson
Attendance	Members present, apologies and absentees
Agenda items	Each topic with a concise, accurate record of the discussion
Decisions	What was decided — clear, accurate and within the meeting's mandate
Actions	Each action with its responsible person and deadline
Next meeting	Carried-over items, date and venue

Communicate decisions and track actions

Communicate decisions

To all affected stakeholders, in the required format — minutes, e-mail or report — and within the required timeframe.

Summarise actions

Each action with its owner and deadline; unresolved items carried over to the next agenda.

Track to done

Follow up on actions before the next meeting — decisions only count once they are implemented.

Decisions that are not communicated and tracked might as well not have been taken.
